"Dirt Farmer" Wins Election In Minnesota

Farmer-Labor Party Candidate Has Big Lead Over Former Governor

WANTS TO FINISH HAYING
Senator-Elect Says He Will Join Group Led By LaFollette

By Associated Press
St. Paul, Minn.—Minnesota representation in the United States senate has been turned over to the Farmer-Labor party as the result of another political transition the state went through in the special senatorial election Monday.

Magnus Johnson of Kimball, Minn., a real dirt farmer, gained the coveted post vacated by the recent death of Senator Knute Nelson, additional returns Tuesday from the special election Monday swelling his plurality.

In 1,800 of the state's 3,520 precincts Johnson had a lead of more than 27,000 over Governor J. A. O. Preus, Republican, with James A. Carley, Democrat, trailing a poor third.

Senator Elect Johnson will sit with Henrik Shipstead, who was elected last fall over Frank B. Kellogg, Republican. Shipstead and Nelson were Farmer-Laborites and have announced their intention to affiliate with the "followers of Robert M. LaFollette."

HOME FOR HAYING
Though jubilant over the victory, the "real dirt" senator was more concerned Tuesday about "getting his haying done" than things political, and he sought to postpone statements incident to his election but he did let drop a few remarks.

"Well, boys," he said, "I put it over. I beat Jake Preus as I said I would. Now I can go home and help my boys get the haying done. After that I can do some more organizing before I go to Washington."

He wanted to ignore statements as to his political plans—the haying and other harvesting had fallen behind during the strenuous campaign he had waged but now "the election job" is out of the way and he can turn "to the job back home."

Pressed for details of his organization plans, he repeated an "excerpt from his campaign speech":

"I will do this because I believe the farmers and the workers and the business men can, by united action, better their conditions."

He was willing to let it be known in a semi-official way that he was "against the world court and the league of nations and any other foreign entanglements."

For the present he preferred not to discuss recognition of Russia, though "between you and me, I am for recognition right away." Prohibition, he passed over, but expressed himself as for a soldiers' bonus, payable out of "excess profits."

PROTEST AGAINST G. O. P.
Charles R. Adams, chairman of the Republican state central committee, attributed the defeat of Governor Preus to the fact that "the best efforts of Republican workers were unable to overcome the evident feeling of unrest and dissatisfaction with economic conditions, which found its vent in a protest vote against the party in power."

Governor Preus, who had announced his support of the policies of the Harding administration which had lent a "Harding versus LaFollette" flavor to the election, had nothing to add Tuesday to his brief statement thanking his supporters for their votes. He will continue as governor until the expiration of his term, January 1, 1925. He has not indicated whether he would try for the long term senatorial election in 1924, for Monday's election simply was for the unexpired term of the late Senator Knute Nelson, or until March, 1925.

Johnson expects to be a candidate for the long term, friends say.

CAN MAKE SELF HEARD
Senator-elect Johnson, while announcing adherence to the principles for which the LaFollette group are banded together, has qualified this affiliation with the statement that he does not intend to accept dictation "from any man" in Congress.

"I am not quite ready to announce my plans," he said Tuesday, "but you can just bet when I want anything done or want to bring anything to the attention of the senate I can make myself heard."

RIVERSIDE CO. BEGINS WORK ON PAPERMILL

New $150,000 Plant To Be Located Near Company's Fibre Mill

Construction of a new papermill was begun Monday by Riverside Fibre and Paper company on a site just east of the present fibre mill. The new structure not only will double the capacity of the plant but will enable production to be accomplished with greater efficiency. The building itself will cost approximately $150,000, and will contain two paper machines. The plant will have a capacity of 50 tons of sulphite bond a day, according to C. B. Clark, president of the company.

C. R. Meyer and Sons company of Oshkosh has been awarded the contract and has men and machinery on the ground. Harry Meyer, one of the members of the contracting firm, will have charge of this project.

The new mill is to be built on the tract bounded on the east by South Division-st. on the south by the government canal and on the north by the river. The entire strip between the street and the present fibre mill will be used, and this mill will be joined to the fibre plant. This will permit production from wood to paper with the necessity of freighting the pulp from one plant to another as formerly was the case.

ABANDON OLD MILL
It is the plan of the company to abandon the present machine and finishing plant west of Lake-st in the "rate." The paper machine now operating there will be moved to the new mill. A second machine has been built in Beloit and will be shipped here as soon as the building is up. It has been in storage for almost a year awaiting the time when the company could put up its new building. Each machine will produce a paper sheet 114 inches in width. The company will make only sulphite bond.

The heater room will join the old fibre plant. It will be 24 by 59 feet in size, according to T. W. Orison, the company's architect, and will be a (Continued on Page 2)

LABOR UNIONS OF TWO STATES HOLD CONCLAVE

Delegates Representing 60,000 Wisconsin Workers Meet On State Line

By Associated Press
Superior — The general executive board of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor Tuesday afternoon denied a request of William Z. Foster, well known radical labor organizer to speak before the federal convention here.

There was no reason assigned by the board for its action.

Superior — Delegates representing 60,000 organized workers in Wisconsin met here Tuesday at the State Federation of Labor convention for the expressed purpose of extending their lines and preparing for another "open shop" attack from employers.

Federation officers in their preliminary report see the necessity for organized political action and recommended that organized labor in the state "continue their conferences with farmer groups until such time as it may be desirable to work through an individual membership party for independent political activity."

While without a definite Farmer-Labor party in Wisconsin, the federation legislative committee reported that as a result of 1923 legislature, labor had made substantial gains. Out of 50 measures affecting the interests of workers 36 per cent were "said to have become law."

DISAPPOINTED IN JUDGES
These changes affected workmen's compensation, shorter work days for women employees, regulation of night work, and restriction in the use of injunctions during labor disputes.

"We realize however," the legislative committee report said, "that the measures passed beneficial to labor will be subject to the scrutiny of judges of the circuit and supreme courts. While labor has been sadly disappointed in the treatment it has received at the hands of judges, nevertheless we hope that the public disapproval of the viewpoint taken by judges on social and economic questions as was evident from the attitude toward the minimum wage decision, will bring forth a more just and liberal interpretation."

"The recent appointments to our supreme court, particularly under Governor Blaine, are very commendable since these judges have as lawyers, and now as judges, shown a keen appreciation of the rights of workers."

"The Wisconsin State Federation of Labor will continue to take active interest in the judicial branch of our government and will bend every effort to obtain a judicial system that will represent all of the people, including the great multitude of workers."

LAWYER SUSPECT STILL AT LIBERTY

Section Crew Sees Suspicious Girl In Swamp But Fears To Accost Her

By Associated Press
Wausau—The officers who since last Wednesday have been searching for Mary Lawando, suspected of a murderous attack on her step-mother on the morning July 10, are again led to believe that the girl is hiding or being cared for at some place in the woods near the Lawando home. A search by a posse Sunday, assisted by an airplane, in which almost every section of the woods, swamp and bog was carefully gone over, was unsuccessful even to the finding of a trace of the girl and it had been concluded that she could not be in that section.

Monday afternoon, however, a section crew working on the Milwaukee road saw a young lady who answers the descriptions of the missing girl, come out of the woods a short distance from the Lawando home. Look about for some time then go back into the forest, sighting one edge of the swamp. The men did not interfere, fearing the girl was armed, but notified the officers. Undersheriff Louis Hinrich went down and followed the trail for some distance where it was lost. The remainder of the evening was spent in searching, but no trace of the girl was found. Arthur Rein, formerly deputy sheriff, was quickly on the ground after the alarm was given, but his efforts also were without result.

BRITAIN HOPES TO WIN FRANCE OVER

London Does Not Regard Debt Commission As Incompatible With Peace Treaty

By Associated Press
London—Foreign Secretary Curzon drew up additional sections of the British draft reply to the German reparations note Tuesday and it is hoped to present the full texts both of the draft and the covering letter to the cabinet Wednesday. Copies of both documents will probably reach Washington by the end of the week.

The draft and the letter are exclusively British productions. Features of the proposed reply will be carefully phrased references to Germany's passive resistance and the American suggestion for appointment of an international body of experts to audit Germany's assets. Great Britain does not regard such an impartial commission as necessarily incompatible with the Versailles treaty and hopes to win France around to this view.

France Has Done Much On Former Front Since 1918

Devastated Areas Almost Completely Rebuilt In Five Years Of Peace

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Cable to The Post-Crescent Copyright 1923, by Post Pub. Co. (This is the first of Mr. Lawrence's dispatches from Europe dealing with war reconstruction problems as they appear to him after five years absence. He finds that the French have made amazing progress in restoring those portions of their country that were devastated in the war but that their mood after five years is still one of vivid war recollections. That is why he started his survey of European reconstruction on the battlefield of France where he says every student of French policy should start.)

Paris — When Woodrow Wilson stepped off the train in Paris five years ago the first man who met him was Raymond Poincaré, then president of France and now its premier.

The first words that M. Poincaré whispered in Mr. Wilson's ear were a plea that the resident of the "lost States" should visit the devastated regions of France. Mr. Wilson did not accept the invitation and the French were very much hurt. He did many weeks later after the bulk of the work on the treaty of Versailles had been completed. Had he come sooner there might have been less wrangling at the conference and the whole course of European history might have been changed.

HEARTENING CHANGES
The first thing that anyone who wishes to study the European situation ought to do is to examine the physical aspects of France's problem. It was nearly five years ago when the writer last saw the battlefields with the ruins of cities and villages. The changes that have taken place since then are so heartening that the average American will not realize what has been done unless he saw the destruction when the guns ceased booming on the western front. The process has been gradual and only when some one makes a comparison based on France today and France five years ago can the progress be measured satisfactorily.

For France is "rebuilding" and is making a splendid job of it. Even the cathedral of Rheims which one might have believed had been damaged beyond repair, is being restored rapidly. Hopeless ruins with piles upon piles of debris which the visitor saw five years ago, have been replaced with thousands of new houses and buildings. The old foundations have been utilized and here and there portions of the original wall remained so that the patchwork can be discerned even through coats of paint.

RUINS ARE EXCEPTION
When the writer saw Rheims after the German evacuation, hardly a single house remained intact. The same was true of Soissons, for ex-

Gen. Gouraud Here To Visit Rainbow Vets

GOURAUD PRAISES PATRIOTISM OF AMERICAN PEOPLE

French General And Party Guests Of Rainbow Veterans At Luncheon

"Although your military task is completed, much work remains for you to do," General Henri J. E. Gouraud told the Appleton Rainbow veterans at their luncheon in honor of the French general and his party in the Conway hotel Tuesday noon. The Frenchman urged his former comrades to work for the rebuilding of their country and expressed satisfaction over the friendly relations between this country and France.

About 80 men attended the dinner which, the general said, was the most enjoyable on his trip thus far. He said he enjoyed a simple luncheon with soldiers and his address was sprinkled with humor.

General Gouraud conveyed the regards of Marshall Foch to the American legion, declaring that the Marshall had instructed him, just before leaving France, to express his best wishes for continued success of the American veterans' organization. Major Lothear and Graef presided at the luncheon. Other speakers were Major Budd of the United States army, Lieut. deVibray, personal aide to General Gouraud, and General Henry J. Reilly, Major Budd delivered his first speech on his trip here. He declared that Appleton is the first "honest to God" American city the party had visited.

General Reilly complimented Wisconsin on its fighting men and declared that what individuals might say about Wisconsin does not reflect on the fighting ability and the patriotism of its young men.

BADGER FARM BUREAU RAPS ANTI T. B. CUT

Statement Charges Blaine, Dahl And Huber With Responsibility

By Associated Press
Madison—The Wisconsin Farm Bureau federation has issued a statement depicting and condemning the action of the legislature in reducing from $1,000,000 to $500,000 the appropriation for the tuberculin eradication work among cattle.

The statement charges that a "triumvirate" composed of Gov. Blaine, Speaker Dahl, and Chairman Huber of the finance committee was responsible for attaching a surtax provision to the $1,000,000 bill in the assembly, causing it to be defeated in the senate and resulting in the $500,000 bill being introduced by Senator Huber.

The statement adds, however, that "the fight for an adequate bovine tuberculin eradication campaign is not over, but just commenced in Wisconsin."

SLAYER CALM WHILE AWAITING CHARGES

Elkhorn, Wis.—Adolph Eckman, held in the county jail here, will be charged with killing Carl Fritz, a farmer neighbor, as soon as a warrant is sworn to following the finding of a coroner's jury which completed its investigation of conditions surrounding Fritz's death. It was announced Tuesday.

Testimony introduced at the hearing by Fred Johnson, a farm hand employed by Eckman, was to the effect that he saw Eckman stand in the door of his home and fire the charge which caused Fritz's death.

Fritz drove to Eckman's home late Sunday to settle an argument over the ownership of a shot gun. As he advanced to the house, Eckman, according to Johnson, shot the charge taking effect in Fritz's groin.

Hundreds Welcome Famous Frenchman In Fox River Valley Cities

SPEAKS IN CHAPEL TONIGHT

Mayor Extends Formal Welcome To City At Brief Program At City Hall

General Henri J. E. Gouraud, the "Lion of the Argonne" was given a rousing welcome to Appleton and the Fox river valley Tuesday morning. From the moment he stepped off his private car at the Soo line depot at Neenah he was the center of enthusiastic crowds which cheered the famous Frenchman whose valor and steadfastness at Champaign helped stem the German attack and turned the tide of war against the Kaiser.

Appleton was in excellent attire to greet the distinguished visitor. French tricolor mingled with the stars and stripes along his route through the city. Whistles and bells announced his arrival in the city and in a few minutes crowds gathered on the streets over which the general and his party would pass. He was cheered in almost every block and the reception reached its climax when he was formally welcomed to Appleton by Mayor Henry Reuter at the steps of the city hall.

"It affords me much pleasure in having the honor to welcome these distinguished guests to our city," said the mayor. "Appleton is always ready to welcome visitors and to make their visit a pleasant one. I am sure these guests will feel at home while they are with us, and that they will always have pleasant recollections of their visit here."

Gen. Gouraud responded through his interpreter, expressing his admiration for the community through which he had just been escorted.

GENERAL GRATIFIED
"I thank you for your hearty welcome," he said. "Although I have been here but a few moments, I find your city a smiling, happy, agreeable place. It is like a child, happy, contented and good. Yet it is I who should be thanked for coming here. It is the Rainbow Veterans association. These men invited me to come to America to see this country, the big towns, the smaller ones and all the places that gave sons to the Rainbow division."

The general went on to thank Gen. Henry J. Reilly and Co. Donovan, members of the national reception committee, for putting Appleton on the list of towns to be visited. His trip from the railroad station revealed a rich and smiling country, he said. He was impressed with the attractive homes and would like to be able to enter them and share the happy lives he knew must be lived there.

Commenting on the monuments and souvenirs shown him of the early French explorers, he said he was glad this community kept them. "If the French and Americans have always been satisfied to be in contact with each other, that satisfaction is due to the ties that have bound them together for so long a time," he said. "The souvenirs remain as evidence of that."

GREETED BY MAYOR
The city hall was decorated with American and French flags in honor of the general's coming. A large crowd had gathered at the steps by the time the parade, headed by 120th Field Artillery band, arrived there. Rainbow veterans and members of Oney Johnson post of the American legion in uniform formed a cordon of honor leading to the steps, where Mayor Reuter was awaiting the arrival of the general. He was cheered as he stepped from his car and walked up the steps. The mayor greeted his hand in a cordial welcome, and then made his address of greeting. The general spoke earnestly as though his entry into the Fox river valley had made a notable impression upon him.

Just as he approached the city hall steps a little girl of about three or four years stepped forward and presented him with a small French flag. He smiled, and stooped to hug the little tot and give her an affectionate kiss.

When Gen. Gouraud finished speaking the band struck up the French national air, "The Marseillaise," and the entire gathering came to attention. "The Star Spangled Banner" then was played, with like patriotic courtesy. The general returned to his automobile and was conveyed to Conway hotel, where the Rainbow division veterans were to have their luncheon. Here of Rainbow men from other cities came here for the reception and luncheon.

The military men accompanying the French hero include Col G. A. Da-stories high. The machine room, 68 by 204 feet in size, will be at the center, with room for the two machines to be placed beside each other. This portion will consist of one story and basement. The finishing room, 90 by 78 feet, located at the South Division end of the site, also will be one story and basement.

All machinery will be electrically driven, drawing power from Wisconsin Traction, Light and Power company's plant. The pulp will be pumped from the pulp mill to the beater room of the new mill.

WILL BE OF CONCRETE

Reinforced concrete will be used throughout the building, making it entirely fireproof. The contractors will erect a huge distributing tower for delivery of the concrete to the various sections. About six months will be required to complete the building, and it will take three or four months additional to set up the machines. No plans have been made for disposition of the old plant.

Construction of this plant will be followed shortly by a new office building on South Division-st., east of the new mill. The plans have not been prepared, nor is there any decision as to its size. It will replace the small frame building now in use as an office at the rear of the old plant.

Erection of Lawe-st bridge is one of the factors which caused the new plant to be located on this site.

FRANCE HAS DONE MUCH SINCE 1918

ample, and other cities and villages where shell fire had been incessant. To look around today is a revelation indeed of the French spirit. The business sections of the cities have been almost entirely rebuilt and rows of roofless ruins are the exception rather than the rule.

Even in the fields picturesque patches of diversified farming are rapidly overspreading the landscape once burrowed with trench systems and shell holes. The sun-shine of peace has seemed to cast halo of glory over yesterday's battlefields. Here and there a ploughman still turns up a hand grenade or a bomb or perhaps the body of an unknown poilu asleep these five years as the world moves onward, but there aspect of war is passing out of the picture and in its place is the work of reconstruction that speaks eloquently of French initiative.

VERDUN BAYONET TRENCH

The embattled areas still remain, of course, as they were left five years ago. These were regions where habitations were few, as for instance, outside of Verdun. From these the sight-seer will always be able to get some idea of what the war was like. The famous bayonet trench at Verdun attracts every year thousands who need only to gaze a moment on the fourteen bayonets sticking out of the ground in order to realize how often soldiers in the great war were buried alive by shell fire. The French will preserve this trench as a memorial to the heroism of the men who were killed as they were about to go over the top and who remain standing below ground in exactly the same position as they occupied when the fatal shell entombed them. The trench will ever remain as a symbol of modern warfare and a terrible picture of what the war really meant to the French.

FEAR RECURRENCE

America has been 3,000 miles from the French in spirit as well as distance since the war, but the French people are not enough to Verdun to worry about a repetition of 1918 and 1919, and when they want reparations from Germany for damage done, when they talk of security against another invasion, their economies may not conform to those of the rest of the world, but their mood is still one of vivid war recollections. That is why the students of the French policy must start with the battlefields in order to understand the diplomatic problems of Europe today, and to penetrate the future of European reconstruction.

Prof. Emme Preparing Program For Next Year's Institute

The Rev. W. A. Hall of Fond du Lac, formerly of Appleton, district superintendent of the Methodist church, was reelected president of the Byron Campmeeting association at Byron for the sixth time at the annual election of officers of the organization. The Rev. T. D. Williams of Green Bay, was elected vice president and F. A. Pease of Randolph and S. H. Bird of South Byron reelected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

The Rev. W. P. Leek was elected ministerial representative on the board of directors for a period of five years and Martin DeYoung of Milwaukee, lay representative.

The Sunday school board and the Epworth League board of Chicago will unite for a grand institute at Byron next year, according to plans made at the business session. It is planned to make it the biggest institute of the year, rivaling that held at Lake Geneva.

The Sunday school board will support the movement.

Prof. Earl Emme of Lawrence college, religious education director of the conference, has already started work on a program for the joint institute.

Several contests and tournaments were held Friday. Mayville defeated the camp boys in a game of baseball and Appleton and Fond du Lac districts defeated the Milwaukee and Janesville districts in volleyball.

Roseanna Bennett of Wisconsin Rapids, was awarded a 1924 registration fee for having traveled the longest distance, 113 miles, to attend the conference. Waukesha and Oconto Falls were tied for having sent the largest number of delegates to the conference.

FARMER HURT IN ELLINGTON STORM

High Wind Blows Over Load Of Hay And Causes Other Damage

Ellington was visited Saturday by a miniature cyclone that caused considerable damage to buildings and crops. Quite a number of windows were broken and barn doors were lifted from their hinges. Crops were leveled.

Herman Moderson probably was the only person injured. He was driving into his barn with a load of hay when the storm struck him and his load was carried over the embankment and he went with it.

He managed to cling to the reins and was pulled out from beneath the hay by his horses which attempted to get away. His knee and shoulder were dislocated.

The "cyclone" covered an area two miles wide and several miles in length.

Start Pouring Concrete

The pouring of concrete on the Seymour-rd by Clark & Wunderlich who have a two and one-half mile contract was commenced Saturday. The drainage structures have been completed, but the contractors have still considerable grading to do.

Piles

Can't Be Cured from the Outside. External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonard, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1900 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under various names. It is easy to take, and can always be found at Schlitz Bros., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer. adv.

Belgians Made U. S. Flags To Greet Yanks

With the people being urged to make their own French flags for the Rainbow division celebration Tuesday comes a memory to many of the former service men of Nov. 21, 1918 when Co. A of the 150th Machine Gun battalion entered Belgium. Few people in Appleton made use of the suggestion that a French flag can be made very readily from bunting at the small cost of seven cents. A paragraph in "A Brief History of Old Co. G in the Great War" tells the story of what the Belgians did. It is from a letter written by Allan B. Ellis to his mother.

"The next day, the 21st, we entered Belgium; were played in by one of the regimental bands. Every house in every town flew the tricolors of France and Belgium and the Stars and Stripes. I can't describe how touching it was to see the pitiful attempts of these war torn people to manufacture that beautiful flag. Some had the stripes verticle, some had no stars in the union, some only 4 or 5 round circles of white and now and then appeared one obviously hand made, yet perfect in every detail."

WISCONSIN GAME BOOK IS EDITED BY APPLETON MEN

A. L. Wolfe and H. L. Bowley Prepare Annual For State Society

Members of the Wisconsin Game Protective association are receiving copies of the association's annual magazine, edited and printed in Appleton. It is a creditable book of 28 pages, crowded from cover to cover with articles of interest and information to sportsmen.

The annual was edited and compiled by A. L. Wolfe, Appleton, secretary of the state association, assisted by H. L. Bowley, proprietor of Actual Business college. Both men have long been workers for conservation of game.

Pictures of state officers, including Dr. J. A. Holmes, state president, Mr. Wolfe and Grant Phillips, the latter a member of the state board of directors, are printed in the book.

More than a dozen leading sportsmen of the state contributed articles on hunting, fishing and conservation. Among the contributors are Dr. Holmes, who wrote the foreword, Elmer S. Hall, state conservation commissioner; E. D. Upson, state lecturer for the conservation commission; W. R. Wheaton, president of the Outagamie County Fish and Game Protective association; Grant Phillips, state director and E. L. Kelley of Manitowish.

The book also contains a report of the last state convention of the association and list of all the fish and game associations in the state that are affiliated with the Wisconsin organization.

C. E. Group Home From Green Lake

Members of the First Congregational Christian Endeavor society who attended the annual Congregational young people's conference at Green Lake last week have returned to their homes.

A conference sermon was given Sunday morning, and a life work recruit institute was held in the evening. The program throughout the week included daily classes in Bible and mission subjects and Christian living, talks by prominent church speakers, and daily recreation. Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor of the First Congregational church, Dr. John W. Wilson of Appleton, district Congregational superintendent, and the Rev. Stephen C. Peabody, also of this city assisted in conducting the sessions.

Appleton had the largest delegation in proportion to membership and the second largest in total number. Milwaukee had the largest attendance. The local group included Naomi Clark, Catherine Langille, Marjorie Small, Esther Ingenthron, Lucille Elsen, Ewele Brock, William Meyer, Oscar Fenske, Willis Elsen, Clarence Zentner, Albert Madison, Irma Weissgerber and Marjorie Wilson.

BIG CATCHES OF WHITE BASS TAKEN FROM LAKE

During the last few weeks innumerable catches of small white bass, each about eight inches in length, have been taken from the waters of Lake Winnebago. These fish are believed to be about two years old. The large numbers of these small fish indicate that about two years ago there was a large hatch of white bass. This is the third or fourth exceptionally large hatch during the last few years and sportsmen who keep themselves informed on conditions in the surrounding waterways believe that within a few years the lake will again be well stocked with this variety of fish.

Jerry Callahan of Kaukauna, who was picked up on Lawest in that city Sunday while under the influence of liquor, appeared in Municipal court Monday morning, accompanied by Richard McCarthy, chief of police of Kaukauna. His celebration cost him $5.50 in court.

ON THE SCREEN

SILLS AND BOWERS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

A double tragedy that would have robbed the shadow screen of two of its most popular leading men nearly occurred during the filming of Thomas H. Ince's "What a Wife Learns!" the much discussed production now showing at the Elks.

To get shots of a big scene at the climax of the play when John Bowers and Milton Sils, who are featured in the picture are trapped by flood waters and swept over the millway of a dam, the two actors climbed upon a temporary staging built just below the big Laguna dam at Yuma, Arizona. At a given signal a dam structure which had been built for the filming of the sequence was destroyed by a rush of water released from the dam and a flood tide swept on down to the lower site where Bowers and Sils were clinging to the staging.

Both Bowers and Sils got the fright of their lives when a wall of water, forty feet high, bore down on them. The head of water from the cates to be opened had been miscalculated and the scene described in the script became terrifyingly realistic. The two actors were thrown into the water with terrific force while even the camera men on the side lines were knocked off their feet.

Freedom Farmer Lived On Same Farm For 66 Years

PIONEER

THOMAS BYRNE

To Thomas Byrne of Freedom, goes the distinction of being the man in Outagamie county who has lived the longest on one farm. On Nov. 20, Mr. Byrne had lived on his farm in the town of Freedom, 66 years, which is the record for residence on one place in the county as far as is known, and probably in the state.

Mr. Byrne is only 74 years old, having been born in Cheshire, Mass., on Oct. 23, 1849 from which place he moved to Green Bay with his mother and remained there four years. At the age of eight years, Mr. Byrne moved to the farm which has been his home ever since. It was 45 acres at that time, but Mr. Byrne has added to it until it now is 150 acres, known as the Long View stock farm. One hundred acres of this is in Freedom in Section 18, while 50 acres is in the town of Center in Section 13. The farm is on the old Seymour-Appleton rd., three and one half miles north of Apple Creek.

In 1911, the pioneer Freedom farmer purchased the old Randerson farm of 120 acres and a little later, he bought the fair ground in the reservation which is 50 acres. Mr. Byrne and his sons own a tract of 350 acres.

POSTOFFICE SHOWS BIG BUSINESS GAIN FOR YEAR TO JULY 1

Mail Increase Is Simultaneous With Growth Of City For 12 Months

Business at the Appleton postoffice is growing with the growth of the city, according to figures for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1923 which show a substantial increase over the 1921-1922 period.

There was a gain in the number of pieces of mail handled in both the registry and insurance departments, and these statistics are taken as a fairly accurate index of the growth of the postoffice business as a whole.

There was a gain for the 12 months to July 1 of 2,207 in the number of letters and parcels received for registry, and of 6,023 parcel post packages insured.

Domestic registry for 1922 totaled 14,073 pieces, and 15,330 for 1923, a gain of 1,257. Foreign registry for 1922 was 1,370, and for 1923, 2,049, an increase of 679. Mail registered under the franking privilege gained 271 pieces.

LATE CHERRIES ARE READY FOR PICKING

Sturgeon Bay Country Filled With Pickers And Visitors

The heaviest picking of cherries in the orchards of Sturgeon Bay will take place the early part of this week. Many of the late varieties are now ripe enough for the market. Picking of early cherries was begun the middle of last week.

There was an influx of pickers to all the camps over the weekend as well as influx of visitors and sight seeing parties. Not many orchards had cherries for sale, but there were few tourist parties leaving the orchard district that were not eating the juicy red fruit from boxes for which they had searched diligently. One party drove through miles of cherry tree lined roads and stopped at six camps before

TWO INDUSTRIES WANT TO LOCATE IN APPLETON

Recommendations concerning two manufacturing companies which sent representatives to have interviews with the industrial findings committee of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce in its assembly room at 7:30 Monday evening will be presented to the board of directors of the chamber at its next meeting. The committee heard the claims made by the manufacturers along with their reasons for wanting to come to Appleton. The committee's decision has not been made public, but will be sent to the board of directors before its meeting.

Cherries could be purchased. Either they were not picking on Sunday or they had not begun to pick the fruit was the reason given at each camp.

Many Appleton people made the trip over the weekend. The trees are covered with cherries, but those along the road are being given a good coating of dust. The hard showers on Sunday passed over the orchard region and the roads sent up clouds of dust after each vehicle.

SCHAEFER AGAIN HEADS SINGER CLUB

Marinette will entertain the East Wisconsin Saengerfest in 1924, according to plans made at the 1923 meeting at Manitowoc Sunday. More than 4,000 people gathered to hear the final program which was directed by George Urban at Lincoln park in Manitowoc. All the officers of the organization were reelected. They are: Otto W. Schaefer, Appleton, president; Joseph Bohrens, Sheboygan, vice president; Joseph Theisen, Sheboygan, secretary; John Grasser, Sheboygan, treasurer.

Florist Convention

The annual florist convention will take place at Manitowoc on July 24. Miles Meidam of the Appleton Junction greenhouse and a representative of the Riverside greenhouse will be present at the convention.

BREAKS LEG WHEN HIS MOTORCYCLE FALLS OVER

Peter Van Dinter is in St. Elizabeth hospital with a broken right leg as the result of a peculiar accident at Fremont Monday afternoon. He rode his motorcycle up to a gasoline filling station and mounted it on its stand. As he turned around to order some gasoline, the machine toppled over. It struck him in the back and caused him to fall backwards on top of the motorcycle. Two bones in the leg were broken. His injury was dressed by a Fremont physician who then took him to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Passenger trains seems to be more or less the fashion of travel for youths these days. The south-bound night passenger train on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad carried 14 of these free travelers. The police discovered them aboard the train and succeeded in capturing seven. The other seven escaped. Those taken to the police station were kept in cells for safe-keeping until morning.

Perfect Accompaniments too, on the Gulbransen

Soft and sweet, and in perfect time, is the accompaniment played on a Gulbransen.

A mere striking of notes would be out of place. The accompaniment must be gentle and dainty—delicately shaded—with here and there a dash of brilliancy to add color to the performance.

Playing accompaniments is a good test of an instrument—and one that, when you make it, will increase your admiration of the Gulbransen.

What nimblest fingers do in playing the piano, and gaining expression, you do with a music roll and the sensitive "pedal-touch" of the Gulbransen.

ISAAR ELECTORS DEFEAT PLAN TO BUILD NEW SCHOOL

Electors Appoint Committee To Plan Remodeling Of Present Building

Special to Post-Crescent
Isaar—By a vote of 33 to 16, electors of Isaar defeated the proposal to build a new 2-room school here at the adjourned annual meeting Monday night. It was decided to remodel the present school, if that can be done, and a committee was appointed to confer with architects and obtain plans and estimates.

Electors were unable to arrive at a decision on a plan for housing the 70 pupils in Isaar at the July 2 meeting and an adjournment was taken. One faction in the town believes the only solution of the school difficulty is the erection of a 2-room school; while the other faction is opposed to that expense.

The committee on building, which will make an investigation and report at another meeting to be held Aug. 1, consists of Nick Watry, Louis Ullmer and Otto Werner.

5-DAY PROGRAM OF CHAUTAUQUA OPENS TONIGHT

Directors Confident That Entertainment Will Pay Its Own Way

Kaukauna—Municipal Chautauqua opens Tuesday evening for a five-day engagement in this city. The big brown tent in which all programs are to be given will be pitched on municipal playgrounds. A refreshment stand has been built on the premises and will be operated by the local boy scouts. Several hundred season tickets have been distributed and indications are that there will be little chance of running behind this year.

If the chautauqua is a paying proposition all profits will be turned over to Kaukauna post of the American legion.

Evening sessions will begin at 8 o'clock and the afternoon programs will start at 2:30. The grand opening at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening will include musical numbers by Leake's orchestra, entertainers, interspersed with novel and humorous skits. The program also includes a play "The Country Cousin," presented by Jeanette Kling, a mono-actress, who has been called a "stock company of one."

The play ran for six months in Chicago theatres.

"Humanity at the Cross Roads" is the title of the lecture during the afternoon session Wednesday. Earnest Powell is the lecturer. Music will be provided by two artists, Ida Divinoff, a Russian violinist recognized on two continents and Paul Held, tenor, who also is a composer.

TUBERCULAR COWS INFECTED HERDS IN NEIGHBORHOOD

Veterinarian Discovers Source
Of Infection Of Skim
Milk Vat

W. F. WENSEY
Before the customers of a certain creamery in Outagamie-co realized what was going on, a herd of tubercular dairy cows, through skim milk carted from the creamery to the farms, had infected a large number of healthy calves, hogs and chickens and the cows of other herds. The inroads the disease had made and the source would not have been known as early as they were, had not the owner of a dairy herd who was delivering milk to the creamery and hauling skim milk back to his farm, noticed something wrong with his calves and hogs, and called in a veterinarian to make an investigation.

Among other things in his diagnosis, the veterinarian applied the tuberculin test to the cattle on the farm. The only reactors he found were the calves and hogs. But the chickens showed symptoms of the disease.

This peculiar discovery started the veterinarians off on a tubercular trail to the creamery and from the creamery to other droves of infected hogs and calves that drew a part of their sustenance from the same tank of skimmed milk. But the other trail from the creamery to the cows that were producing the infected milk could not be located until the owner of the infected cows, suspicious on account of their condition and their decreasing milk-production, called him to make an investigation as the other man in an opposite corner of the creamery district had done some time earlier. The only difference in the purpose of these two dairy men was that the one desired to know why his cows were losing weight and producing less milk and the other why his chickens were scrawny and moping and his calves and hogs were becoming razor-backs in spite of the best rations he could feed them.

The infected herd of the second applicant was poisoning the hogs, calves, chickens and cattle through the skim milk vats of the creamery.

The wholesale spread of tubercular germs among healthy farm animals and birds is being checked now in the pasteurization of skim milk and whey by the creameries and cheese factories. So these feeds are safer for animals than is butter and cheese for a human being.

ACT NOW TO RID COUNTY OF T. B., AMUNDSEN ADVISES

Just a Few Reactors Sufficient
To Infect Large Territory

R. A. Amundsen, County Agent of the northern counties in Wisconsin in which all the cattle have been tested, very little tuberculosis was found. Less than 1 per cent has been found in Douglas, Bayfield, Washburn, Barron, Ashland, Iron, Price, Oneida, Lincoln, Langlade, Forest and Florence-co's.

Of the cattle that have been tested in this part of the state between 1 and 3 per cent have been found tubercular in Outagamie, Shawano, Winnebago, Brown and Waushara-co's. Of the cattle tested in Waushara-co less than 1 per cent of reactors have been found. Tuberculosis is most prevalent in southern Wisconsin. In Dane, Jefferson, Rock, Walworth, Racine and Kenosha-co's, from 7 to 15 per cent of all the cattle tested react to the tuberculin test, and in some isolated sections the mortality is appalling.

Outagamie-co is still comparatively clean with somewhere between 1 and 3 per cent of tubercular cattle. With the conditions as they are in the dairy business today, where cattle are confined to the barns a large share of the time, moved about extensively, and unpasteurized by-products of the factories used extensively, the possibilities of spreading this disease become apparent.

While indemnities are paid on tubercular cattle, and the per cent of reactors is small, the loss to the individual is negligible, but if allowed to go on, with the infected cattle spreading the disease, the condition is liable to mean serious loss to the stockman in the future, especially if the payment of indemnities is discontinued and the consumers demand products from healthy cows.

"A stitch in time saves nine." Where reactors are found the cause is usually found also. Quite often it is one bad "spreader" that contaminates the herd and a great number of cattle in a factory territory. By getting rid of the new unhealthy cattle now within the county, the danger of further infection is practically eliminated.

Road Material Is Given Thorough Scrubbing At Binghamton Before Delivery To Builders Of New Highways

WHEN Mother Nature won't give up clean materials to put into the great concrete highway system of the community, they have to be treated just like youngsters that have been making mud pies. They must submit to a good bath before they are presentable.

Outagamie-co has a mammoth "laundry" where this scrubbing process is going on daily to make up for Mother Nature's mistake when she mixed a lot of clay with sand and gravel. It is at Binghamton, a few miles off the Appleton-Black Creek highway and presents a spectacle almost as interesting as the washing of dirt at a gold mine to separate the fine particles of shining metal to be made into coins and jewels.

The cold commercial name of this interesting center is Appleton Sand and Gravel company's plant. It is an industry about a year old that has taken its place prominently among the commercial enterprises of the Fox River valley. Many miles of the new pavements within a radius of 100 miles from here will have been made of "Appleton" sand and gravel as the years pass, for ten carloads leave its siding daily to supply some construction crew.

ORGANIZED LAST YEAR
This company was organized in February, 1922 as a corporation with capitalization of $50,000. Thirty stockholders in Appleton and vicinity are its owners. Hugh Garvey of Appleton is its president, William Piehl of Seymour, vice president, and John Bailett of Appleton, secretary and treasurer. James H. Bailett is in active management of the plant and sales.

The company purchased 20 acres of land a few rods from Binghamton. The land contains thousands of tons of sand and gravel, to a depth of 20 feet or more. A large plant was erected and began operation in July of last year. The production has been built up until now the capacity is 500 tons of material a day, or about 10 carloads. A sidetrack a mile long from the Soo line station at Binghamton provides the shipping facilities.

The plant consists of a combination conveying, crushing, screening, washing and loading device equal in height to a two-story building. A bottomless scoop resembling a snow plow operated backwards digs the gravel from the pit and brings it to the elevator belt by which it reaches the refining machinery. The scoop is operated on a cable that sends it ahead, lowers it and pulls it back to the source, dragging about a yard of stony earth with it.

CRUSHER IS USED
One conveyor belt takes the load from the scoop in its myriad buckets and brings it to a second belt elevator. Here it is dumped over a bared opening that separates the stones more than two inches in cubic content from the remainder of the material. The big stones drop into a crusher where they are ground up and fall onto the same belt that is taking the remainder of the unwashed substance to the top of the building.

Conveyor belt number two pours the gravel into a long, revolving cylinder with screen mesh of three sizes, one of which separates the pea gravel, a second the 1-inch size and the other the 2-inch size. Each kind falls into its proper bin, where it is loaded into cars from spouts on one side, and into wagons or trucks on the other.

A water pipe extends through the center of the screen, and its row of openings keeps a continual spray playing on the gravel as it descends by gravity to the lower end of the cylinder. The sand and clay are washed down onto a runway, leaving the three sizes of gravel perfectly clean. The sand is heavier than the clay and sinks to the bottom of the muddy fluid as it makes its way along a trough. A chain belt equipped with paddles scrapes along the runway where the sand is deposited and dumps it over the end into the sand storage bin below. There is no clay left in the sand after the washing process.

DRAIN OFF CLAY
The water containing the clay travels down a long trough into a low place on the land, where it is dumped as refuse. This is the last stage of the cleansing process and leaves the gravel and sand ready for the market, all "laundered" and assorted according to size.

Water is supplied from a well 130 feet deep, with a feed pipe 10 inches in diameter. The water is forced through the pipes from the well by a blower instead of the usual suction pump. This prevents clogging of pipes.

The first method used by the company was to pump water directly from the well to the sifting plant, but the supply was not always sufficient and uniform. A large concrete reservoir therefore was built this summer. It is ten feet in depth and holds 130,000 gallons. The pump is operated day and night and the water is run into the tank. It is pumped from there to the plant, giving a uniform and plentiful supply.

Electric power is used throughout, obtained from the Appleton power plant. One large motor propels the field scoop, another the elevating and screening process and a third the pumping apparatus.

Almost all of the gravel is shipped by rail to the various consuming points. Trucks deliver to road projects nearby. There is enough of a supply on the 20-acre tract to keep the plant operating for many years. Machinery does so many of the operations in simple progression that only five men are needed to operate the plant.

Garage Walls Can't Hold Rooney's Car

Attorney F. J. Rooney can now enter his garage from either the front or rear. He took out the rear wall Sunday night by stepping too heavily on the "juice" after having failed to make the grade into the garage on his first attempt. His family alighted before he started for the garage and after hearing the crash the members were alarmed until he reappeared in a neighbor's yard. He escaped injury but the top of his car was damaged.

Egypt's Greatest Treasures

Palm and olive oils are the most important treasures ever discovered in ancient Egypt. They were valued more than gold or jewels in Cleopatra's day because of their virtue as beautifying cleansers. Modern women get the same result by using Palmolive Soap. The scientific blend of these rich oriental oils gives the smooth, creamy cosmetic lather of Palmolive.

Labor In Cold Storage

We often hear some one say—I wish I had this — I wish I had that — I wish I had more money. Are they not saying in effect—I wish I had more strength to work; more wisdom to plan; more intelligence? The material things we covet or the money it takes to buy them are but evidences of stored up labor; your labor or the labor of someone else. The one way by which we can be rightfully entitled to these things is to work and the more intelligence we put into our work the more profitable and remunerative it will be. How long would organized society be able to exist if it was governed by a hand-to-mouth policy? How long would business, corporate and private, continue to function if it could not see a surplus? It is this surplus by which we measure our material prosperity: it is your business if you would be successful to provide a surplus either in consuming less or by producing more by greater exertion. You will find a bank account a wonderful asset and as it grows it can be wisely invested to augment the building of your estate.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF APPLETON

"Giuseppe Doria has a wonderful story about himself," continued Mrs. Pendean. "Uncle Ben tells me that he claims descent from a very ancient family and is the last of the Dorias of—forget—some place near Ventimiglia."

The boat turned west presently, passed a panorama of cliffs and little bays with sandy beaches, and anon skirted higher and sterner precipices, which leaped six hundred feet aloft.

Perched among them like a bird's nest stood a small house with windows that blinked out over the Channel. It rose to a tower room in the midst, and before the front there stretched a plateau, whereon stood a flagstaff and spar, from the point of which fluttered a red ensign.

The motor launch slowed down and presently grounded her bows on the pebbles. Then Doria stopped the engine, flung a gangway stage ashore and stood up to hand Jenny Pendean and the detective to the beach. The place appeared to have no exit, but behind a ledge of rock, stairs carved in the stone wound upward, guarded by an iron handrail. Jenny led the way and Mark followed her until two hundred steps were climbed and they stood on the terrace above.

It was fifty yards long and covered with sea gravel. Two little brass cannons thrust their muzzles over the parapet to seaward and the central space of grass about the flagpole was nearly surrounded with a decoration of scallop shells.

"Could anybody but an old sailor have created this place?" asked Brendon.

A middle-aged man with a telescope under his arm came along the terrace to greet them. Bendigo Redmayne was square and solid with the cut of the sea about him. His uncovered head blazed with flaming, close-cropped hair and he wore also a short, red beard and whiskers growing grizzled. But his long upper lip was shaved. He had a weather-beaten face—ruddy and deepening to purple about the cheek bones—with eyebrows, rough as bent grass, over deep-set, silky eyes of reddish brown. His mouth was underhung, giving him a pugnacious and bad-tempered appearance. Nor did his looks appear to belie the old sailor. To Brendon, at any rate, he showed at first no very great consideration.

"You've come I see," he said, shaking hands. "No news?"

"None, Mr. Redmayne."

"Well, well! To think Scotland Yard can't find a poor soul that's gone off his rocker!"

"You might have helped us to do so," said Mark shortly. "If it's true that you've had a letter from your brother."

"I'm doing it, ain't I? It's here for you."

"You've lost two days," said Bendigo Redmayne grunted.

"Come in and see the letter," he said. "I never thought you'd fail. It's all very terrible indeed and I'm damned if I understand anything about it. But one fact is clear: my brother wrote this letter and he wrote it from Plymouth; and since he hasn't been reported from Plymouth, I feel very little doubt the thing he wanted to happen has happened."

Then he turned to his niece.

"We'll have a cup of tea in half an hour, Jenny. Meanwhile I'll take Mr. Brendon up to the tower room along with me."

Mrs. Pendean disappeared into the house and Mark followed her with the sailor.

They passed through a square hall full of various foreign curiosities collected by the owner. Then they ascended into a large, octagonal chamber, like the lantern of a lighthouse, which surmounted the dwelling.

"My lookout," explained Mr. Redmayne. "In foul weather I spend all my time up here and with you, dear young, three-inch telescope I can pick up what is doing at sea. A bunk in the corner, you see. I often sleep up here, too."

"You might almost as well be asleep," said Brendon, and the remark pleased Bendigo.

"That's how I feel; and I can tell you there's a bit of movement, too, sometimes. I never wish to see bigger water than beat these cliffs during the south-easter last March. We shook to our keel. I can tell you."

He went to a tall cupboard in a corner, unlocked it and brought out a square, wooden desk of old-fashioned pattern. This he opened and produced a letter which he handed to the detective.

"Dear Ben: 'It's all over. I've done in Michael Pendean and put him where only Judgment Day will find him. Something drove me to do it, but all the same I'm sorry now it's done—not for him but myself. I shall clear tonight, with luck, for France. If I can send an address later I will look after Jenny—she's well rid of the blighter. When things have blown over I may come back. Tell Albert and tell Flo. Yours, Tell Albert and tell Flo."

"R. R."

Brendon examined the letter, and the envelope that contained it.

"Have you another communication—something from the past I can compare with this?" he asked.

Bendigo nodded.

"I reckoned you'd want that," he answered and produced a second letter from his desk.

It related to Robert Redmayne's engagement to be married and the writing was in his own hand.

"And what do you think he's done, Mr. Redmayne?" Brendon asked, pocketing the two communications.

"I think he's done what he hoped to do. At this time of year you'll see a dozen Spanish and British onlooker boats lying down by the Barbican at Plymouth, every day of the week. And if poor Bob got there, no doubt plenty of chaps would hide him when he offered 'em money enough to make it worth while. Once aboard one of those sloops, he'd be about as safe as he would be anywhere. They'd land him at St. Malo, or somewhere down there, and he'd give you the slip."

"And, until it was found out that he was mad, we might hear no more about him."

"Why should he be found that he was mad?" asked Brendon. "He was mad when he killed this innocent man, no doubt, because none but a lunatic would have done such an awful thing, or been so cunning after—with the sort of childish cunning that gave him away from the start. But once he'd done what this twist in his brain drove him to do, then I judge that his madness very likely left him. If you caught him tomorrow, you'd possibly find his mind as yours—except on that one subject. He'd worked up his old hatred of Michael Pendean, as a 'sinker' in the war, until it festered in his head and poisoned his mind, so as he couldn't get it under. That's how I read it. I had a pretty good contempt for the poor chap myself and was properly savage with my niece, when she wedded him against our wishes, but my feeling didn't turn my head, and I felt glad to hear that Pendean was an honest man, who did the best he could at the Moss Depot."

Brendon considered.

"A very sound view," he said, "and likely to be correct. On the strength of this letter, we may conclude that when he went home, after disposing of the body under Berry Head, your brother must have disguised himself in some way and taken an early train from Paignton to Newton Abbot and from Newton Abbot to Plymouth. He would already have been there and lying low before the hunt began."

"That's how I figure it," answered the sailor.

"When did you last see him, Mr. Redmayne?"

"Somewhere about a month ago. He came over for the day with Miss Reed—the young woman he was going to marry."

"Was he all right then?"

Bendigo considered and scratched in his red beard.

"Noisy and full of chatter, but much as usual."

"Did he mention Mr. and Mrs. Pendean?"

"Not a word. He was full up with his young woman. They meant to be married in late autumn and go abroad for a run to see my brother Albert."

"He may correspond with Miss Reed if he gets to France?"

"I can't say what he'll do. Suppose you catch him presently? How would the law stand? A man goes mad and commits a murder. Then you nab him and he's as sane as a judge. You can't hang him for what he did when he was off his head, and you can't shut him up in a lunatic asylum if he's sane."

"A nice problem, no doubt," admitted Brendon. "but be sure the law will take no risks. A homicidal maniac, no matter how sane he is between times, is not going to run loose any more after killing a man."

NO DEATHS FROM TYPHOID IN THIS STATE LAST YEAR

Control Of Dread Disease In Wisconsin Is Almost Perfect

Control of typhoid fever has reached such a stage in the United States that in 1922 the death rate for this disease was the lowest ever recorded, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The figures have reached the offices of the American Child Health association, on whose work they have a particular bearing inasmuch as this association is waging a campaign to get control but not only of typhoid but of every other disease as well, especially as they effect children and mothers.

The typhoid death rate in 1922 was 5.6 per 100,000 among the millions of Metropolitan industrial policyholders who comprise about one-seventh of the total population of the United States and Canada, according to the figures. The report goes on:

DEATH RATE LOW
"There is every indication that a similarly favorable condition occurred in the general population of these two countries. In fact a study recently made by the American Medical Association shows that to have been the case in the populations of the larger cities of the United States, the typhoid fever rate of 1922, was among the policyholders, one-sixth lower than that for 1921, and was less than one-fourth as high as in 1911. Had the rate of 1911 (22.8 per 100,000) prevailed in 1922, there would have been 3,161 deaths instead of the 779 that actually occurred."

"The most favorable death rates, from typhoid fever prevailed in the New England, Middle Atlantic and in the east and north central states. Not one death from this disease occurred among policyholders in Vermont and only three occurred among the large number of policyholders in the District of Columbia."

WISCONSIN HAD NO DEATHS
Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, all showed favorable conditions. Excellent rates are found also in some of the western states, notably Wisconsin and Minnesota, where no deaths were recorded, and Michigan, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Montana, Utah and the three Pacific Coast states.

"The problem of excessive typhoid fever prevalence is now limited, in the main, to the southern and central regions of the United States and to two eastern provinces of Canada."

STAGGERS ON BICYCLE
A "drunk" in an automobile may be dangerous, but one on a bicycle is as good as any show. I was crossing Lawes bridge in Kaukauna on Thursday when a man very evidently under the spell of "moon" came out of the shoe repair shop, mounted his bicycle and started to coast down the sloping bridge to the south side. To say he staggered is putting it easy, but he kept his balance until some workmen raised a trap door in the bridge as they were coming up from doing some repair work underneath it. The man hit the trap door and he and bicycle went sprawling on the walk. A policeman happened along, picked up the man and his bicycle and took them in the direction of the station. M. N.

440,000 MOTOR CARS LICENSED IN STATE THIS YEAR

Registrations For Fiscal Year
Were 75,000 More Than
Year Ago

At the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1923, there had been licensed by the secretary of state, 439,836 motor vehicles. In the fiscal year, June 30, 1921 to June 30, 1922, there were licensed 364,112 motor vehicles, an increase of 75,724 in the last fiscal year. This means an increase of 21 per cent in the number of motor vehicles. The population of Wisconsin by the last federal census was 2,600,000, indicating that there is one motor vehicle for every six people in the state.

The total number of automobiles licensed in the fiscal year was 390,000, and of trucks 25,536. The balance is made up of dealers' licenses, motor cycles, and transferred licenses. A study of the records in the past year shows an amazing increase in the number of motor vehicles. In the calendar year 1912, 27,734 motor vehicles were registered. At present more motor vehicles are registered on an average each month. The same statistic applies to the number of motor vehicles registered in 1913, which amounted to 38,825. Previous to this year the big increase was the year 1917 over 1916, a total increase of 49,000, and in the year 1920 over 1919, an increase of 58,000. Traveling an average mileage of 5,000 miles a year, the 440,000 motor vehicles would roll up a total of 2,200,000,000 miles. Assuming the average weight to be 3,000 lbs., including trucks, etc., it means a total weight on the roads of 1,320,000,000 lbs.

NAVY COSTS MOUNT

SHEBOYGAN'S $2,000,000 HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETED

Sheboygan—Acceptance by the city council committee in charge of the final unit of the Sheboygan High school means completion of a $2,000 building project that has been in process for more than two years.

The Sheboygan High school now ranks with the largest and best in the state, having every modern educational facility as well as those intended to make of the high school a community center.

One of the outstanding features is the large auditorium, which was designed and constructed particularly with the view to making it a permanent home for the Sheboygan symphony orchestra.

Waterstown—Harold F. Henderson, 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Henderson of this city, died at St. Mary's hospital on Monday, just twenty hours after he had fractured his neck while diving into Rock lake, near Lake Mills.

Henderson was with a party of Junior or baseball players from Waterstown, and after the game went in swimming with his friends.

It was while diving in shallow water that he received his injuries, which completely paralyzed the upper half of his body. He was a junior in the Waterstown high school and member of the basketball and football teams.

Miller Steps In When Dobratz Fails To Show Up For Marinette Game

Schleski Has Another Engagement So Wenzel Plays Right-field While R. Smith Is Shifted To Third Base

Sylvester's troubles will never end, apparently. On Sunday, shortly before his team left for Marinette, he received a telegram from Dobratz, saying he could not play in the game with the Twins, because he had injured a finger. As Dobratz had been expected to provide another man to take his place, it was up to Sylvester to get one. The only prospect in the short time left the Appleton magnate appeared to be Leland Miller, who was at the Conway hotel. Miller had played last year at Wisconsin Rapids. This young man consented to go along to the north in spite of the fact that he had not played ball at all this year. Captain Sylvester placed him in Ted Lamers' position, switching R. Smith over to third, which was also minus a man, owing to Schleski's inability to help out. Wenzel had come back to the fold, he was put in right field.

DO GOOD WORK
Dutch Sylvester was not disappointed with either of the last-minute subs he put in the game. Wenzel, he says, played a brilliant game, getting one hit, and taking every chance which came his way without a wobble. Miller, although he was not in training, played beyond all expectations, and although he did not get a hit, he took five or six chances in perfect form.

Now Manager Sylvester is again in the market for a third baseman, having decided that the player who refuses to play at the last moment on account of a sore finger is not fit to join his lineup.

By Associated Press
St. Paul, Minn.—Five motion picture companies are bidding for the services of Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul lightweight boxer, Eddie Kane, his manager said Tuesday.
Kane said he is continuing to receive offers from promoters for another bout with Jack Dempsey but he said he would turn a deaf ear to them until Tommy has completed his vaudeville and movie engagements.

APPLETON WINS BARNYARD GOLF MEET SATURDAY

Woolen Mill Team Defeats Kimberly In First Of Series Of Factory Games

The Appleton Woolen Mill horse-shoe pitching team won all three of the matches played with the Kimberly Mill team Saturday at Kimberly. The games were of 21 points each. Rain interfered with the contest, but after the sky had cleared, play was resumed in spite of the wet grounds and slippery shoes.

This was the first set of a series of games which will be staged between the various factories of the Fox river valley during the summer. Although not in the professional class, both of the teams which broke the ice Saturday are open for matches with any other barnyard golf players who would like to take them on. Ewald Elias of the Valley Sporting Goods and Appliance Co. on Appleton is promoting the sport, and applications for matches with Kimberly or the Woolen Mills should be forwarded to him.

APPLE CREEK WINS GAME WITH ONEIDAS

Apple Creek was victorious over the Oneida Indians, 14 to 9, in Sunday's contest at Oneida. In spite of wet grounds, both teams played well.
C. Turner of the Apple Creek tribe started for his team, driving out a homerun with one man on in the fifth inning, and polling three safe hits besides. His brother, H. Turner pitched for the Apple Creek team, and Peotcher held his station behind the log.
Next Sunday the Indians will play a return game at Apple Creek.

Sidestroke May Save Life Of Friend

BY LYBA M. SHEFFIELD
Director of Swimming, University of California Summer Session, and Co. Author of "Swimming Simplified."
FIFTH ARTICLE—THE SIDE UNDER-ARM STROKE

San Francisco—The side under-arm stroke, which I will explain today, is very useful for long distance swimming and, should the occasion arise, for life saving.
Besides it will give you variety from the elementary crawl and the back stroke, which I explained in former articles.
I will give the directions for right-handed swimmers, if left-handed, reverse all motions.

To practice the arm stroke, stand either on the side of the tank or in shallow water, body erect and right arm extended straight out to the side, parallel to the ground, with palm down. The left arm is down at the left side of the body with the thumb touching the thigh.
Bend the body slightly toward the right, and look back over your left shoulder.

Now bring the right arm down in a circular sweep. When well down, bend the elbow and finish by bringing the hand up to the shoulder.

Simultaneously with the right hand motion, bring the left hand up across the body to meet the right hand at the right shoulder. This is done by bending the left elbow.

Finish the stroke by pulling the left hand forcibly back to its starting position and simultaneously extending the right arm out to its starting position.
After you have practiced the arm motion sufficiently, lie on your right side at the side of the pool with the legs well out over the water. Keep your legs straight, with ankles and knees touching.

Now slowly separate the feet by bending the right knee and, at the same time, moving the left leg slightly forward. The knees should not be separated more than about two inches and the feet not more than 12 to 16 inches.

Finish by forcibly bringing the feet together to the starting position. Hold this position for a moment. This rests you and allows you full advantage of the momentum gained through the stroke.

To combine the push-off, stand erect near side of tank and grasp some support with the left arm. Extend your right arm as in the starting position.

Next bend the left knee and place the sole of the left foot against the side of the tank, well up from the bottom.

USE FORCE
Then push away with force sufficient to cause a glide of several feet. As your movement slackens, commence the arm motion.

After you have practiced this two or three times, repeat, combining the arm motion with the leg kick.

In doing the side under-arm remember that the legs remain extended until the left arm starts its downward pull, and that the open and close of the leg kick is executed with the pull so that you finish in the starting position both with arms and legs.

A variation of this stroke is the single over-arm. It is executed in the same manner except that the left arm is brought out of the water by bending the elbow and slightly raising the shoulder. The forearm is kept close above the water's surface, with wrist straight and palm down. Finish of the single over-arm is with the left hand almost even with the right shoulder.

TOMORROW: The swan and jack-knife dives.

MISS SHEFFIELD ILLUSTRATING CORRECT STARTING POSITION FOR THE SIDE UNDER-ARM STROKE.

Newark, N. J. — Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, knocked out Nate Siegel of Boston in the tenth round of a scheduled 12 round bout.

SOUTH AMERICA MAY GET BATTLE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Rickard Considering Holding Firpo-Dempsey Bout In Argentina

New York—The heavyweight boxing outlook took an unexpected turn late on Monday when Promoter Tex Rickard announced a definite proposal to stage a title match between Jack Dempsey, the champion, and Luis Angel Firpo, in the capital of the latter's native Argentine, Buenos Aires, about Nov. 1.
Firpo, keenly anxious to fight for the highest of fight honors, before his countrymen, already has accepted Rickard's terms, Jack Kearns, the titleholder's manager, discussed details of the proposition with Rickard for an hour Monday afternoon and at the end of the conference told the promoter his answer would be ready by Wednesday.

FIRPO HOMESICK
Rickard said his plan to take the fight out of this country was prompted by two reasons—Firpo's desire to return to his native country for the bout, and enthusiastic reports from the promoter's agents as to the possibilities of financial success in the "Paris of South America."

Rickard has had representatives in the Argentine for some time, looking over the ground, but just after Firpo's knockout victory over Jess Willard at Boyle's Thirty Acres a few days ago, he intimated he had abandoned the project in South America because of the probable risk involved. However, he received cabled advice on Monday that helped alter his mind.

One of them from Juan Homas, a personal agent, saying that a fight between Firpo and either Dempsey or Harry Wills, negro contender, would draw more than 2,000,000 pesos—about $500,000—in the Argentine capital.

WOLPIN WANTS TO FIGHT JOE QUINN IN APPLETON RING

Middleweight Returns From West Where He Won Three Fights

Bill Wolpin, who has returned to Appleton after a successful invasion of the west, is eager for an opportunity to take on Gunner Joe Quinn in a bout before Appleton fans. Wolpin has a lot of confidence now as the result of three wins over well known scrappers in the west. He won three bouts by knockouts in less than two weeks, flooring boys who have good reputations in the west. His last bout was in the big arena at Shelby on July 3.

Wolpin worked out with Jack Dempsey a few times. He was a willing scrapper but the champion was too heavy for him.

Wolpin thinks he has improved enough in the last few weeks to give the best in the country a run for their money. He is faster on his feet than stand a punch and packs a wollop of his own. Wolpin believes he can beat the Gunner if he can get him in the ring with him.

Wolpin has had representatives in the Argentine for some time, looking over the ground, but just after Firpo's knockout victory over Jess Willard at Boyle's Thirty Acres a few days ago, he intimated he had abandoned the project in South America because of the probable risk involved. However, he received cabled advice on Monday that helped alter his mind.

Fewster Enrolls In List Of Big League Boneheads

Many ivory plays have been pulled on the field since baseball was in its infancy. And they are still being put on exhibition now and then. It's only natural, of course. For like the old saw says: "Even the best of 'em make mistakes."

Perhaps four of the most famous "boners" were made by Fred Merkle. Heine Zimmerman, John Anderson and Harry Niles.
Merkle showed his in 1908 when he was with the Giants, failing to touch second base in a game against the Chicago Cubs, the blunder eventually cheating the McGraw troupe out of the pennant; Zimmerman enrolled in the punks' school by chasing Eddie Collins across the plate with the winning run of a game in the 1917 world's series; Anderson stole second with the bases full and Niles ran around a mate on third without knowing it.

There have been others as well but these four doubtless stand out as the prize dumb plays of the game. But only the other day "Chick" Fewster of the Boston Red Sox pulled a stunt that entitles him to worthy consideration as a member of the ivory club.

It happened in a game with the Tigers. Pierre, the Red Sox pitcher, seeing Holloway lagging it for second heaved the ball to the bag in an effort to nip the Tiger runner. The throw was high, though, the leather bring far out of the reach of Fewster, who was covering the sack. "Chick" however, was so intent on stopping the ball in its flight to the outfield that he threw his glove into the air to check the progress of the spheroid. And that's just what he succeeded in doing.

Results: Holloway was allowed to go off the way home from the key-stone cushion in the breach of baseball etiquette. Perhaps, Fewster doesn't know any better. At any rate it was another one for the book, though it didn't prove costly, as the Tigers won the contest by a wide margin.

YANKS DROP GAME TO CLEVELAND, 6-0 AND LOSE PITCHER

Cubs Win First Game Of Double-header With Giants, 7 To 4, Lose Second, 3 To 1

Chicago—The Yanks not only lost half their double header with the Cleveland Indians Monday but they temporarily lost Bullet Joe Bush, their star twirler. Joe stopped a hot liner off Speaker's bat with his gloved hand threw to first for an out and retired from the game for at least ten days with a broken finger. The Indians won the first, 6 to 0, but lost the second 11 to 7. Smith, the Yanks' right fielder hit a home run.

The Giants and the Cubs split a double header. The Cubs won the first game, 7 to 4, the Giants the second, 3 to 1.

In Chicago, Ted Blankenship passed out four free tickets to first, which, coupled with an error by McClellan, allowed Philadelphia to escape with the game, 4 to 3.

The Robins defeated the Pirates in Brooklyn, 8 to 4, while Washington defeated Detroit in the latter's field in a close game. The score was 4 to 2.

The Red Sox were trimmer by the Browns, 4 to 1. The Phillies went down to a 13 to 7 defeat on their home grounds at the hands of the Cardinals.

The Cincinnati-Boston game at Boston was called off on account of rain.

SLAPNICKA GETS BERTH AS THREE EYE UMPIRE

Chicago—C. C. Slapnicka, until recently manager of the Vicksburg Miss., team of the Cotton States league, was assigned to umpire in the Three I league, succeeding Mike Jacobs, who resigned. Slapnicka formerly was a pitching star in the American association with the Milwaukee club.

Toronto—W. Leroy Rennie of Toronto won the open singles tennis championship of Canada and was chosen one of the members of the Canadian Davis cup team for 1923.

MAYEFSKI MAKES GOOD AS PITCHER

Joe Mayefski, manager of the Appleton Home Players, also is an important factor in the success of the Menasha Woodware team. Last Saturday the Woodware tribe played the Banta Publishing company team. Being in need of a pitcher, the Woodware outfit called for a volunteer for that job, and Mayefski offered his services. In the seven innings of play which ensued, Joe gathered ten strikeouts, and the Banta men didn't get a run.

This was the second game Mayefski pitched for the Woodware clan, and as he shut out the opposing team in the first game also, he now has a record of 14 innings without a run.
